DATA PRIVACY STATEMENT

We are delighted about your interest in our services. GEYA-92 attaches great importance to data protection and data security in particular.

1. Personal Data

Information which is used in order to be able to draw conclusions about you, in other words personal or factual circumstances, must be understood under personal data pursuant to the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

2. Data Collection and processing

2.1. GEYA-92 collects and processes information to be able to furthermore offer you optimal services in the future. Personal evaluation of your data does not take place. During use of GEYA-92 Services only your internet service provider's address, such as IP ad-dress or URL, the website name, from which you have visited us, the website, which you called up with us and the date and duration of your stay is stored by default. These anonymised surveys are entirely processed internally and are not forwarded to third par-ties. What's more, no personal user profile is created in this way.

2.2. Additional personal data, such as name, address and email address are not stored separately within the scope of the setup of a user account. The corresponding mandatory fields (as User ID) to be filled out are marked.

3. Use and Forwarding of Personal Data

3.1 All of your personal data prepared for creation of your user account is treated as confi-dential by us and is not forwarded to third parties without your consent. Your personal data is used by us only to answer your questions and for internal preparation of statis-tics. Exceptions only exist in the case of forwarding your data to governmental institu-tions and authorities per law.

3.2 Data is always passed on in anonymised form. Allocation of retrieved data sets about you is made via the unnamed user account, which is generated automatically.

4. Consent

In case of necessity we may hear your consent to use on-line services. We will log your consent concerning data collection and storage. We will inform you when and how you have given your consent on request. If you should not give your consent we request your understanding that you may not use ours NGIT Online Services.

5. Data Security

5.1 We utilise extensive technical and organisational security measures in order to protect your personal data from deliberate manipulations, loss or access by unauthorised third parties.

5.2. These measures are constantly improved within the scope of applicable data protection laws and in accordance with technological developments. Erroneous or suspi-cious hits are temporarily recorded for early detection of possible attacks on the ours NGIT Online Server in order to guarantee constant security.

6. Changes

We reserve the right to change the data privacy statement at any time with due regard to applicable data protection regulations.
